

What's Missing?

A fun and easy iSpy-style game for the whole family!

Supplies Needed:

- At least one friend or family member (you can even play this game virtually over video call!)
- 10 small items for each player
- A flat surface
- A clock/watch/timer (or you can count)

How To Play:

1. Choose one person to be Player 1 and the other to be Player 2. Player 2 closes their eyes while Player 1 arranges their 10 objects in front of them.
2. Player 2 opens their eyes. They are allowed to look at the 10 objects for 30 seconds. They close their eyes again.
3. Player 1 selects one item to remove and hides it somewhere out of sight.
4. Player 2 opens their eyes. Their job is to decide which of the 10 objects is missing.
5. When they guess correctly, you switch roles! Now Player 2 can arrange the objects and the process repeats.

Variations:

Once you've perfected this first version, here are some other ways to change things up and challenge yourself!

- By changing the number of objects you play with, you will change the level of difficulty: more objects = harder, fewer objects = easier
- By taking away more than one object at a time, you can also make the game more challenging! Try taking away more and more each round!
- Playing virtually? No problem! Player 1 points their camera at their 10 objects to show Player 2, then turns the camera away/off to remove one object. When ready, Player 1 points the camera at the objects again so that Player 2 can guess what's missing.
